Members of Record 2009

Our Guest Quartets

To most people, the members of Audacity do not appear to be audacious. They are four ordinary guys who lead rather normal lives. That all changed, however, when they formed their quartet in early 2007. Pictured from left to right are John Fynmore, tenor, Byron Bennett, lead, Greg Dodge, bass, and Fraser Brown, baritone. With seeming disregard for precedent, in 2008 Audacity became the first Senior level quartet to ever qualify for participation in the regular International Quartet Contest, a feat they had the nerve to repeat in 2009.

As if this were not bold enough, the quartet had the audacity to become the 2009 International Seniors' Quartet Champions the first year in which they qualified to participate in this event. Audiences should be forewarned that these fellows are not as they appear. They have been known to bring listeners to their feet while stirring their emotions to new levels, which they did at the 2009 Far Western District Quartet Contest. This daring act resulted in their being selected to receive the "Standing Ovation" award which is presented annually to the most entertaining quartet in the contest. This was Audacity at its audacious best.

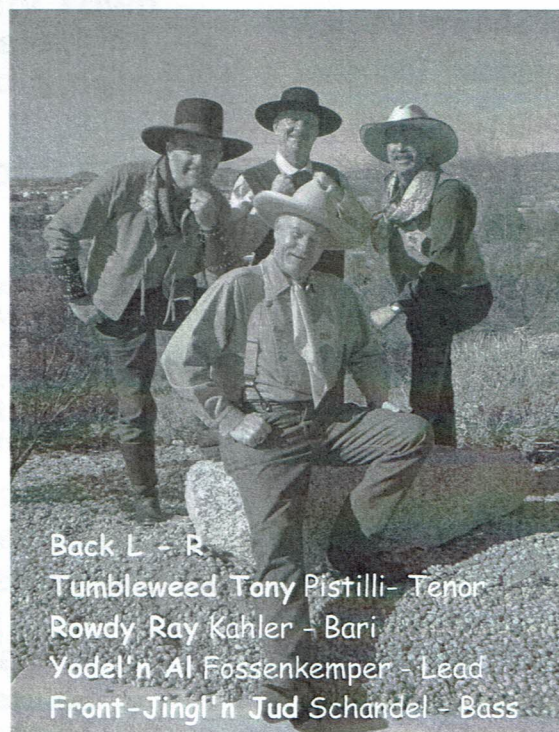

And the Bards of Tombstone

OK Chorale

The OK Chorale Quartet rode into the valley a few years ago and they've been treat'n audiences to their unique style of music and story tell'n ever since.

The Chorale don't give a hoot for them there "Fancy Dan City Boy" type quartets that stand around in their silly straw hats and striped coats, sing about the Moon, June and mak'n believe they are some kinda "ladies men". Give the Chorale a Dance Hall Girl, a good horse and a guitar and they'll show you how the cowboys do it.

If you don't cry your eyes out when they sing their song about Mattie Earp's lonely desert grave then you're one tough hombre. And yep, these fellas can also hit you with a shot of foot stomping - toe tapp'n- hoe down'n - kneeslap'n - barn burn'n - gall dern'n - uptunes.

Tumbleweed Tony Pistilli - Tenor
Rowdy Ray Kahler - Bari
Yodel'n Al Fossenkemper - Lead
Front - Jingl'n Jud Schandel - Bass

Named as the "Official Western Balladeers" for Truewest Magazine the OK Chorale is gonna take you back to the day when the only law was "Right" and men like Wyatt, Morgan and Virgil ruled the Arizona Territory. So saddle up and get ready for the OK Chorale or as Doc Holliday said: "You're a Daisy if You Do!"
